

Cathleen Zeymer studied Chemistry at TU Dresden and UC Berkeley. She performed her PhD studies in Biochemistry/Biophysics at the Max Planck Institute for Medical Research in Heidelberg. In 2015, she joined ETH Zurich as a postdoctoral fellow. She was appointed as Tenure Track Assistant Professor for Protein Chemistry at TU Munich in 2020. Her group's research focuses on the design and directed evolution of artificial metalloenzymes and photoenzymes.